

09/688001

ABSTRACT

A method of operating a vacuum corrugated belt feeder with positive air pressure separator during a feed cycle wherein the vacuum and the positive air pressure air are controlled by a vacuum valve and a positive air pressure valve respectively, wherein the paper is taken away by a belt which is activated when a feed clutch is energized, comprising actuating the vacuum at the start of the feed cycle and de-actuated the vacuum when the feed clutch is de-energized, and pulsing the positive air pressure separator by actuating and de-actuating the positive air pressure separator during the feed cycle.

四庫全書